127TH ANNUAL MEETING AT COSM

May 15-16, 2025 • Hyatt Regency New Orleans • New Orleans, LA

About the Triological Society

The American Laryngological, Rhinological and Otological Society, Inc., aka The Triological Society, was founded in 1895 in New York, NY. Since its founding, the Triological Society has attracted the best and brightest in academic and clinical otolaryngology. Membership in the Triological Society brings the distinction of being elected to the most prestigious society in otolaryngology. Active Fellowship is achieved by presenting a thesis in the field of otolaryngology considered acceptable to a panel of peers. For those entering the field of otolaryngology, the Society provides role models. For those who are committed to research and related scholarly activity, the Society offers fellowship with like-minded peers who share common values, interests, and concerns.

The Society disseminates scientific information by presenting the latest basic science and clinical information at scientific meetings and through publication of its scientific journals, The Laryngoscope and Laryngoscope Investigative Otolaryngology. The Society promotes research into the causes of and treatments for otolaryngic diseases by attracting promising physicians to scholarly otolaryngology research and supporting their development, providing financial support for the research efforts of young scientists, and promoting the highest standards in the field of otolaryngology-head and neck surgery.

Mission Statement

The mission of the Triological Society is to assist physicians and other health care professionals in maintaining and enhancing their knowledge of and skills in otolaryngology-head and neck surgery in pursuit of improved patient care.

Goals

- To continue the noble legacy of the Triological Society, which is to attract, develop and mentor the best otolaryngologists to become scholars and leaders.
- To encourage, support, and disseminate through meetings, print and electronic mediums the latest basic and clinical research findings and reports on evidence-based medicine pertaining to the diagnosis, treatment and prevention of the full spectrum of disorders of the head and neck and related structures.
- To seek out and encourage scientific and technical advances in otolaryngology-head and neck surgery.
- To provide a forum through meetings, print and electronic mediums for the international exchange of ideas and knowledge in otolaryngology-head and neck surgery and related fields of medicine and science.
- To provide for physician professional development through support of teaching and peer reviewed research.
- To encourage the highest ethical and professional standards in the delivery of patient care by otolaryngologist-head and neck surgeons.
- To promote academic excellence by requiring peer recommendations and an acceptable mentored thesis for admission to membership.
- To ensure that all educational activities comply with ACCME directives, and develop vehicles for otolaryngologist-head and neck surgeons to meet their Maintenance of Certification requirements.
- To enhance fellowship amongst members by creating social forums for interface and conversation.
- To maintain The Laryngoscope and Laryngoscope Investigative Otolaryngology as primary journals at the forefront of excellence as a resource and venue for scientific advancement of the profession.
- To advance the Society's standing outside the field of otolaryngology-head and neck surgery and promote across all types of practice environments.

- To facilitate the above goals, the Society sponsors educational meetings. The Society's journals, The Laryngoscope and Laryngoscope Investigative Otolaryngology serve as a means of disseminating the latest basic and clinical research results. The Society encourages research in otolaryngology-head and neck surgery by providing research grants and awards on a competitive basis.

In 2024, the Triological Society awarded:

- $480,000 in grant funds to otolaryngologist-head and neck surgeons to 1) help facilitate research career development in young otolaryngologists; and 2) further support otolaryngology clinical scientists with new or existing K08/K23 awards;
- $203,250 to residents, medical students, and Fellows who presented award winning posters at the Society's meetings.

Program Objectives

This activity is designed for otolaryngologists-head and neck surgeons and other health professionals. At the conclusion of this activity, the learner should be able to:

- Identify the causes of and recommend appropriate interventions for a variety of common and uncommon disorders affecting the ear, nose, throat, head, and neck.
- Integrate knowledge of new technologies to improve patient outcomes and optimize practice performance in otolaryngology.
- Recognize healthy versus unhealthy responses to negative patient outcomes to reduce dissatisfaction and burnout among physicians and other healthcare professionals.
- Effectively lead multidisciplinary teams by setting clear expectations for each team member, ensuring care is streamlined, efficient, and centered on the needs of patients and their families.
- Evaluate their own competence across clinical practice, education, research, and practice management in otolaryngology to identify and address knowledge gaps proactively.

Message from the President Michael E. Hoffer, MD FACS

It's a tremendous honor to welcome you to the 127th Annual Meeting of the Triological Society in New Orleans! We have grown from a humble origin of 11 otolaryngologists in 1896 to the vibrant society we are today. The Triological Society honors our noble legacy by producing three different award winning publications, providing scholarships for students and trainees to attend our meetings, providing generous grants that help the careers of our surgeon scientists, and having engaging meetings that cover the entire field. At the same time, we seek to be a transformative society with changing faces of our leadership and opportunities for participation for all our members. Borrowing from the traditions of the past as we look forward to the future helps keep the Triological Society in the forefront of our specialty. Our goal is to continue to be a leader in advancing all aspects of our field and provide a place where all Otolaryngologists can enjoy fellowship, education, and the opportunity to influence the future of our field.

Our program Chair, Dr. Sonya Malekzadeh and her hardworking committee have designed a superb program. We have clinical and scientific discussions for all the subspecialties and a number of very interesting panels that examine other aspects of our specialty including training, certification, leadership, diversity, and cutting-edge technology. The meeting is designed to allow the participants to explore topics which they have asked for and do not find at other meetings.

Our society owes a tremendous debt of gratitude to our outstanding staff of Beth Faubel, Colleen Finnerman, and Beth Slovinski. We also want to recognize our outgoing Executive Vice President, Dr. Myles Pensak. His leadership, guidance, and counsel have helped transform this society and have touched the lives of many of our members. I look forward to welcoming you to New Orleans and if you are not a member yet we invite all of you to join our society. We represent the entire specialty and the entire range of practice environments. If you are an otolaryngologist, we have something for you.

Triological Society Honorees

Harris P. Mosher Award

Given in recognition of the excellence of the Candidate's Thesis in Clinical Research. This honor was created to perpetuate the ideals of the great teacher for whom it was named and to bestow upon a worthy recipient the responsibility of furthering the highest standards of perfection in the study, teaching and practice of Otolaryngology.

Harris P. Mosher • 1867-1954

Highly respected, feared, and revered by his students, Dr. Mosher attended Harvard College and the Harvard Medical School, receiving his MD degree in 1896. There were no formal residency training programs then, so he sought training at the best ear, nose and throat centers in Germany, namely, with Jansen in Berlin and Grunert in Halle. After returning home, Mosher became an instructor in the department of anatomy at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary and the Harvard Medical School.

He started the first course in sinus anatomy in the United States. This course was to become famous for its content and its progenitor and was appropriately named "Mosher's course". It endured for 35 years.

In 1919 he was appointed Professor of Laryngology at the Harvard Medical School and Chief of Laryngology at the Massachusetts General Hospital. In 1932 he was appointed to the Walter Augustus LaCompte Chair of Otology at Harvard and at age 66 became the second individual to hold two chairs at Harvard. Dr. Mosher was a member and became the president of all of our prominent national otolaryngology societies. When the American Board of Otolaryngology was formed in 1924 (the second certification board after ophthalmology in 1917*) he was chosen as its president and served in that capacity for 25 years. He was the recipient of the Semon Medal from the Royal Society of Medicine of London, the Gold Medal from the American Laryngological Association, and a service medal from the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology. He is known for his intranasal ethmoidectomy technique and his method for the removal of safety pins swallowed by babies, for which he was given a citation by the American College of Surgeons in 1934.

*Deliberations and progress in our specialty were interrupted by World War I. Also, there was growing resistance to authority to regulate specialty education and training--in essence, the transition from apprenticeships to formal training programs as we know them today. The need was urgent because some form of evaluation of physicians was needed to supplement the general licensing regulations of the various states' Boards of Public Health.

Edmund Prince Fowler Award

Given in recognition of the excellence of the Candidate's Thesis in Basic Research. This honor was created to perpetuate the ideals of the great teacher for whom it was named and to bestow upon a worthy recipient the responsibility of furthering the highest standards of perfection in the study, teaching and practice of Otolaryngology.

Edmund Prince Fowler • 1872-1966

It says something about the intellectual wealth of the Triological Society that Edmund Prince Fowler Sr., MD, succeeded Max Goldstein, MD, as president in 1932. Both were giants in otology, prolific authors and advocates for the hard of hearing. In honor of Dr. Fowler's contributions to otolaryngology, the Society established The Edmund Prince Fowler Award in 1971, given each year for the best thesis in basic research.

After earning his MD from Columbia University, Dr. Fowler joined the Manhattan Eye and Ear Hospital and became a clinical professor at Columbia University in 1933. He was a decorated colonel of World War I. He was president of the American Otological Society in 1937, recipient of the first Award of Merit from that society in 1952 and founder of the first hearing center in the United States (in New York City). To the legacy of the prodigious researcher and "Dean of Audiology", as he was called, we attribute the invention of the modern clinical audiometer. He tested many patients and soon became aware of the fact that some patients with severe or unilateral losses had suprathreshold hearing values, a condition he coined as "recruitment". This clinical finding resulted in the Alternate Binaural Loudness Balance test, the first to separate cochlear from retrocochlear losses.

In his address to the sections in January 1932, Dr. Fowler described specific recommendations for hearing tests on schoolchildren. He also asked his colleagues to be thoughtful: "Let us not forget to treat the patient as a sensitive human being," he said, "and aid him in surmounting the drawbacks and psychological reactions to his disability."

At the 38th Annual Meeting in Atlantic City, NJ, in 1932, Dr. Fowler shared the spotlight with Edward B. Dench, MD, first president of the Triological, then 72 years old. (Dr. Dench had been named Honorary President of the Society in 1931 until his death in 1936.) At the meeting, George Richards, MD, editor of the Transactions, outlined a list of guidelines for submissions. During the same meeting the council approved a resolution supporting the ABO and its work in raising educational standards in the specialty as part of an effort to stem the tide of proposals for examinations for specialists by each of the 48 states.

Dr. Fowler died in 1966, six months after the last of his 113 papers was presented (at 94 years of age!) at a meeting of the American Otological Society.

Maureen Hannley Award

Given in recognition of the excellence of the Candidate's Thesis in an Alternative Science category. This honor was created in 2016 to honor Dr. Hannley's contributions and legacy to the Triological Society. She was the Society's Thesis and Research Grants consultant from 2006 to 2015. Dr. Hannley assisted young researchers and mentored candidates for Triological Fellowship, assisting them with preparation of their theses.

Maureen Hannley • 1942-2015

Maureen Hannley, PhD, was a dedicated advisor and respected for her commitment to advance the mission of the Society to attract the best minds in otolaryngology. Her tireless work assured that the quality of the contributions of the candidates reflected the honor and prestige of membership. As the diversity of the academic and scientific work of the otolaryngology community evolved, Dr. Hannley acknowledged the importance of alternative scholastic contributions to our Society that fall outside the traditional basic and clinical research paradigms. This award is annually bestowed upon the candidate whose thesis represents an outstanding contribution in the alternative science category of Technology/Procedure Development, Otolaryngology Status and Trends, Health Services Research, or Historical Perspectives.

Maureen Hannley, PhD received her MA from the University of Arizona and a PhD in Hearing Science and Biocommunication from Baylor College of Medicine. Throughout her academic and research career, she held appointments at Louisiana State University, Kresge Hearing Research Laboratory, Stanford University School of Medicine, Duke University, Medical College of Wisconsin and, most recently, was a Professor in the Department of Otolaryngology at University of Arizona. Dr. Hannley held many administrative appointments, including that of Chief Research Officer at the AAO-HNSF and Health Services Administrator and Director of the Hearing Research Program at NIDCD. She lent her expertise to numerous advisory boards including NIH, ARO, SUO, and Boys Town National Research Hospital, to name a few. She was elected as an Honorary Triological Society Fellow in 2009.
